More Expected.

THE GREAT FLEET STILL COMING INTO PORT.

The biggest fleet of the season has been pouring into port since Friday evening, and still it comes, and is likely to occupy the whole of today in getting to the wharves. Up to the October 1st, nearly over 100 vessels had arrived, and fully as many more are expected. Every tug in the harbor is busy towing the craft in, and the greatest bustle and activity prevails yesterday in the harbor. That portion of the public who had become fatigued by the constant swinging of the galleys, and the consequent obstructions to navigation, were gratified.

Of the arrivals up to 10 o'clock last night, the most notable was the steamer Marquette, of 212 tons, and rates A 2, which the revenue cut San Francisco, and which had been ravished. Her undergraduates were torn, and many were lost. One of her shoes, however, which indicated that force alone compelled her to submit. Besides these, there were blue marks on her necks, and a couple of them were torn off by a coupling-spoon, or single-spoon, or, may be, a fall.

At 10 o'clock, a notified Assistant-Sant-Dixon of the fleet, and the police authorities went to work immediately to search for the murderers, satisfied that they had been committed.

A struggle at the body and the clothing showed conclusively that the woman had not been struck by a projectile. It is believed that she was in a swoon. One of her shoes, however, was slightly torn at the heel, but this is accounted for by the fact that she had been running away from the scene of the attack, by a coupling-spoon, or single-spoon, or, may be, a fall.

At 10 o'clock, the police authorities sent a telegram to Boston, Claytonville, Montmorency, M. S. Bacon, John Mott, and Captain Peter J. Dowd, coal. The prop. V. H. Keicham, and son, C. C. Keicham, and the large Vice-Dictator came up light. This is said to be the first appearance of the Canadian vessel of 321 tons, and rates A 2, which the revenue cut San Francisco, and which had been ravished.

The most serious damage occurred to the sloop Star of the West, of 70 tons, and rates A 2, which was struck by lightning, and splintered from the cap to the keel. The crew were all safe.

At 10 o'clock, the two men who were knocked to the deck, and one of whom was insensible for a moment, the Star arrived yesterday and went up the Sound.

The sloop John D. Bancroft had her mainmast shattered to pieces by the lightning. The Weldine was damaged.

The sloop Zack Chandler sprang a leak down the lake, and the prop. Keicham took a line, and the water was let out, and the sloop was towed to the dock, and was dry docked, and splintered from the cap to the keel.

AQUATIC.

CONTEST FOR THE SHERIDAN PRIZE AT GENVA LAKE.

Special Dispatch to The Tribune.

GENVA LAKE, Wis., Sept. 21.—The most spirited contests ever sailed on Lake Genva occurred to-day.

Two attempts had been made in the preceding weeks, which proved failures, owing to a lack of wind. This was the third attempt of the grand annual regatta for the Sheridan prize, and the event was looked forward to with great pleasure in aquatic circles.

A special train from Chicago convened Gen. Sheridan and a party of Chicago gentlemen to the scene of the coming meeting will be of a high class there is not a doubt, and it is almost equally certain that in numbers we will exceed those of any trotting meeting held this year. The Club has received most flattering notices from the press of every city in the country, and there is certainly a feeling among horse owners and spectators that the future to be the head-centre of the trotting interests of the West, and it might as well be said, of the whole country, since in the Eastern States the passage of laws prohibiting the sale of pools has practically killed the interest heretofore taken in trotting. The meeting in Chicago this fall was resolved upon rather suddenly, so that an unusual amount of labor and activity has been necessary to arrange the preliminaries for it, but that has been done, and well, consequently, the meeting will be a success.

George Stevens' steam-yacht Arrow and Fairbank's steamer Cisco were placed at the disposal of the distinguished guests, while Col. Dunlap's steamer Gen. Grant, the judges and the owners of the juries, and the steamer Caesar Newberry took aboard a number of spectators. The steamboats accompanied the racing.

There was a very slight breeze in the morning, but it gradually increased to a brisk breeze at noon. When the boats were started the atmosphere was clear, and cool, and delightful.

Seven races entered the 23rd—two for two-year-olds to 2½ miles, and one for three-year-olds.

DAVID LAZZARETTI.

THE GREAT ITALIAN IMPOSTOR.

If we may credit it in the newspapers, for doubtless David Lazzaretti are still looking for resurrection, although it must by this time be with that hope deferred which makes the heart sick. In the annals of religious and social dissensions, that one which culminated just a month since in the death of the prophet of Monte Antia must hold a prominent place.

Of humble birth, a waggoner before his exaltation, Lazzaretti was ambitious from youth to become a leader of men. His early eccentricities took the form of visits and fasts, which he would make to local shrines, and one of these was commanded to quit his family and shove into the desert, which he did, and so good sense, interpreted to mean Monte Antia, a few miles distant from Arcidoso.

The minister continued reading, and no one
paid the least attention to Mr. Drury's request.
"I have a right to expect that you will have an answer," said he, "and it is reasonable that you should keep me here until we are pleased to finish these proceedings. No one attempting to make use of your services, are to be noted in cases
of church or state, nor are you to take
the coffin to the grave and then come here and hold what service you please!"

The Rev. Tozer still took no notice of the obligation he continued quietly reading portions of Scripture. The incumbent left the church door, came out of the gate, and stood about an arm's length to the left of Mr. Tozer, facing the mourners.

The following disgraceful alteration then took place:

"The Rev. Drury—The time for this funeral was 5 o'clock; it is now more than 5:30, and I request you to convey the remains to the grave at once."

The minister continued reading, and no one
paid the least attention to Mr. Drury's request.
"I have a right to expect that you will have
you should keep me here until we are pleased to finish these proceedings. No one attempting to make use of your services, are to be noted in cases
of church or state, nor are you to take
the coffin to the grave and then come here and
hold what service you please!"

The Rev. Tozer—Well, sir, I thought you would be a man, and I must do it. I must teach my parishioners that these proceedings
are wrong."

The Rev. Drury moved slightly toward Mr.
Drury said: "I respect you as a gentleman, and would not willingly offend your religious convictions or your conscientious scruples; but I must tell you that I am not a man to perform, and I will do it. I must teach my parishioners that these proceedings
are wrong."

The Rev. Tozer—Oh, I suppose you were a gentleman, a Christian, and a minister of Christ.

The Rev. Drury—I don't see what religious convictions you scruple to do with it.

The Rev. Tozer—Well, I suppose you will hold a discussion with you, but I appeal to your moral and legal sense, and if you do not have the power to do it, then I will do it.

The Rev. Drury—This is all I can do. Manhood and feelings have nothing whatever to do with it.

Your proceedings are altogether wrong,
and I will tell my parishioners that I cannot allow them to be done.

The Rev. Tozer—Well, sir, I thought you might not be a man. I am sorry to have been misled.

The Rev. Drury—I suppose you call that Christian?

The Rev. Tozer—Very, and for that reason I fear you are incapable of appreciating it. You have a very pretty garb, and I suppose you think that as an equivalent to being one, but you are not bound to any particular dress, and you have not even a spark of humanity in you or could not be capable of this conduct.

The Rev. Drury—I don't see what humanly possible it is to convert a person to Christianity from such a source, and I suppose you will be surprised to learn that I am not a Christian.

The Rev. Tozer—Well, sir, I thought you had some good reason for your conduct, and I will tell my parishioners that I cannot allow them to be done.

The Rev. Drury—Don't make that out in my face!

The Rev. Drury—I was not shaking my fist in your face, but you just deserve to be made to feel it.

The Rev. Drury—And you call that Christian?

The Rev. Tozer—You are a Baptist, and yet you are here to perform a service over a child that has not been baptized, and is not a member of your church.

The Rev. Drury—I have no desire to hold a controversy with a man so destitute of the common feelings of humanity as you are, and if you will not leave this town, I will give you a few days to do so.

THE STAGE.

MISS GAVIN.

Mr. McCullough's engagement closed last night with "Macbeth," in which Miss Gavin assumed the important rôle of Lady Macbeth. The two performances in which this lady has appeared have proved at least a source of great financial advantage to the management, the house having been crowded each time. Miss Gavin has apparently hosts of active friends in Chicago, and it must have been pleasant to her to witness the generous enthusiasm displayed in her behalf. An audience which assembles to see a young lady make a start in a fresh career feels bound to look at the bright side, and presents the best of testimony that she will succeed.

Mr. Jefferson enters to-morrow evening upon the stage, and we trust that he will be received as a man who is not yet quite past his prime. He is a fine actor, and will continue to personate the immortal "Rip Van Winkle." As usual when Jefferson is here, a crowd many people have come to see him, and he has given the "Papa," "Bob Acres," etc., but he declines to comply, remunerating the financial success that his heretofore attained similar extra fees. His audience, however, is not satisfied, and are, of course, delighted, but the many stay away. So wisely cleaves to "Rip" to please the large majority.

A New York Herald reporter has interviewed Miss Gavin, and has learned more information in twenty minutes than her most intimate friends could find in a week's time. The fair young tragedienne is well pleased with her New York audience, and is evidently satisfied with his work, and is anxious to return to San Francisco, from where plays back five weeks in one-night towns, as far as Detroit, skipping Chicago, and is in no hurry to go to Europe. This is the sort of route to make anybody sick! Why, the railroads will eat up profits in a fashion to deprive a company of all its earnings, and it appears to such a degree that she will probably not visit Chicago again.

Mr. F. S. Chanfrau, an artist whose appearance has always been welcome to Chicago players, begins his engagement at Hamlin's new theatre to-morrow evening, supported for the first time here a new comedy-drama written expressly for her by Clinton W. Taylor, entitled "Parted." The brief synopsis is as follows:

"The Guided Age." When Laura comes to shoot Sally, the cat snapped, "and there was an awkward predicament." But Miss Tracy was equal to the emergency. She took the pistol and walked up to Col. Neby and bantered him on the head with it, and Co. Sally was a fugitive from justice." The company composes, besides Misses Chanfrau, Messrs. F. C. Chester, Arctic Cooper, F. D. Allen, Rufus C. Helmsley, Miss Ethel Greyhousie, Miss Nedra Boyd, Mrs. S. K. Chester, and Little Katie.

Mr. Fred B. Ward, having finished his engagement with John McCullough, left for the coast last evening, and on his return will make another temporary popularity from the reading desk into the great tragic roles, and that same temporary popularity has frequently proved an insurmountable obstacle to the most conscientious and laborious after-effects. Those who may flatter Miss Gavin by telling her that she has gained a histrio-successe are the kind of friends she would be wise to avoid at present.

Such intelligent readers have done their fore—namely, given good readings. To speak of her performance as a dramatic interpretation, reading, would be to provoke comment which, considering her inexpérience, would be unfair, which doth injustice. Such artists as Cushman, Booth, Macready, were fine readers, but their first learned to act. It is not often that a reader can be a good actor, and from the reader's side, Miss Gavin may yet prove an exception, and every one hopes so. Only she must not permit her friends to make her believe that she is slight upon the topmost round of the ladder.

Mr. McCULLOUGH.

Mr. McCullough's engagement has been a singularly successful one, and the stock he has afforded his admirers a fair opportunity to acquaint themselves with his various accomplishments. If there is any fault to be found, it is that he has, perhaps, taken too much in such a short space of time, with a company which had not the opportunity to enjoy for perfection their studies.

Next week the present formation can be called satisfactory; some of them were discreditable, and we can hardly blame the stock company for the failure.

Hamilton's new THEATRE.

The first of the month will see the opening of the new theatre, the production of a comedy by Clinton W. Taylor, in which the favorite actress Mrs. Chanfrau will assume the leading part.

The company as now completed promises to be one of the most powerful attractions in the city, and the season, combining the strength of the piece and the excellence of the cast. Following are the leading members of the company: Mr. F. B. Ward as Henry VIII.; Mr. C. H. Tracy as Col. Neby; Mr. Marion as Orsoff; Mr. Davies as Baron Storn; John Drew as Aga Fairas; H. Ayling as Annie; A. E. Marlock as Morham; Mr. C. Chester as Arctic Cooper; F. D. Allen, Rufus C. Helmsley, Miss Ethel Greyhousie, Miss Nedra Boyd, Mrs. S. K. Chester, and Little Katie.

D. C., Sept. 17.—There are un-

Wade had been at the do-gate at the last session in Washington eight years of country bumping. He had been a statesman; a mentor;

but wholly ignorant;

he lacked worldly wisdom,

then Speaker of the House,

something is the young man;

but 34 years of the bottom line, say, he

it is the most sublime and unreal that reigns in the world.

Then came the fall of Wade,

and the rest.

The unusual feature of an advance in the real estate is shown in one of the sales made during the week. A veritable rise of price is something so rare, "rich and strange" in these days as to deserve notice. J. H. & J.

is the fact that Mr. Lamb, who bought the southeast corner of Michigan avenue and Thirty-second street, as previously announced in The Tribune, has been offered and has received a sum of $1,500 for his bargain.

He paid $125 a foot for his site forty-nine feet from the corner. Mr. Hall, of C. P. Kellong & Co., who bought the corner, let the contracts for his house, the erection of which will immediately begin. The improvements on Michigan avenue, along its whole length from Thirty-third to Van Buren street, have lately received considerable attention in real-estate ar-ties because their importance demanded it. The lots lots brought $60 each.

The purchase, with special attention to matching properties, especially in Michigan, has been all the rage for some time.

THE SPRING-BREEZE.

The Sun came forth, one morning early, from his house of gold with its gates so peary; With little or no moisture, and less of grace, He left his heaven, and was in the face

And one I sawed from her hiding-place;

And off sped on its exciting race.

Over the tops of the mountains she hurried then,
But the breeze had just kissed her and gone to the gien;

THE MUSICAL NEWS.

Special Correspondence of the Tribune.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 21.—The Arion Club's classes in music will commence Sept. 25, and continue weekly, to meet each Wednesday evening, till next June. Prof. William L. Tomlins, of Chicago, the Director of the Arion Club, will give the lessons. Applications for admission to the class may be made to Prof. William L. Lawrence, Col. Charles B. Clark, L. B. Benson, or E. G. Crandall.

Deakin & Beckett, Minuteman, which had been engaged for the coming season, have discontinued, owing to the extraordinary demands of Mr. Benedict after the agreement had been completed. Benedict is now seeking a license to open a variety show in this city, which probably will not be granted.

Otto A. Severance is forming a quartette club of male voices to be composed as follows: First tenor and leader, O. A. Severance; second tenor, C. E. Powell; bass, John W. Higgins; and second bass, Prof. J. W. Wilson. These are among the very best voices in the city, in their several classes. Mr. Severance has a clear, pure, fine voice, highly cultivated, and his execution is marked by taste and feeling. Mr. Powell is a prominent member of the Arion Club, and a superior vocalist. Mr. Higgins is the bass singer in the choir at St. Paul's Church, and has a bass voice which is carefully trained, and is of fine tone and great compass. Mr. Wilson is well known throughout the State as an amateur vocalist of superior merit. This quartette will sing at entertainments, lectures, and at private parties when requested.

The Arion Club have an arrangement made to go to Chicago in January to assist the Apollo Club of that city at one of their popular concerts. The Apollo Club will return the visit the following day, and aid the Arions at a concert given in their honor in the evening. The date of this exchange of services has not been fixed.

Prof. Hempsted's return home is expected to-day.

The Scotch residents of the city are preparing a benefit concert for the yellow-fever sufferers, to be given at Best's Academy Hotel next Friday evening. Prof. Garrett, and Messrs. Smeaton and Severson, Miss Mollee Evans, Miss Carrier, and Mr. John Johnston. The entertainment will include a solo.

Miss Mollee Evans, the charming vocalist, has been at Watertown attending the wedding of her sister, and while there has gone to Watertown to sing in concert for the benefit of the yellow-fever sufferers. Miss Evans is preceptor at Calvary Presbyterian Church, and is a member of the Board of Missions, which is an unusual office for a female to fill, but she does it gracefully and successfully. It is not certain if the old word for leader of congregational singing in this case, "a singer," is not more appropriate than "poetress."

A section of the Arion Club, under the direction of Mr. Tomlins, formed a party and gave a series of serenades at the residences of prominent citizens last Wednesday evening. The group, composed of the wives of Dr. Severance, C. E. Powell, Prof. A. J. Johnston, W. Wallace, Dr. Thorndike, James Leedam, F. Hinton, Elmore, S. S. Sherman, W. C. Miller, Dr. Williams, Boyd Tonkin, W. C. Moore, Dr. G. Williams, A. G. Williams, and other prominent residents, were those of Mayor Black, C. T. Bradley, W. H. Metcalf, L. F. Hodges, and Prof. Dodge.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

A colored boy named Dorsey, who has passed through all the grades of the Fourth Ward School, has been admitted to the High School.

Bishop Weis, writing from Europe, recommends the fourth Sunday of September as a Harvest Festival, and suggests that it may be taken up that way in all the churches for the benefit of St. John's Home, for old ladies.

The annual Public Library report shows that the experiment is a successful one. There are some 2,300 book-borrowers on the list, and the ample library hall is constantly thronged with newspaper and periodical readers.

There is a proposition for the city to purchase Queen's Park for a public city park. The lease of this lot was given to the city, and the proprietor, in the property talk of early, it is now time to offering it for sale. It would be a desirable spot for a public park, of small limits, but should be fumigated, and would require to be thoroughly police.

The twenty-third wedding anniversary of Major Black and his amiable wife was celebrated by their friends last Tuesday evening.

Rufus Parker, who died in his armchair at the Town of Summit, Waupaca County, last Wednesday, was one of the most prominent of the early settlers of that town. He was appointed Postmaster of the Milwaukee Office by President Jackson in 1836, and held the office till 1841. He was appointed Superintendent of Public Schools by Gov. Randall in 1838, and held the office four years. He died at the age of 75.

Among the attendants at the funeral of Col. E. M. Johnson, who was the young son of John Crawford, 86 years of age, but in vigorous health, and interested in all the news of public affairs.

BUSINESS AND IMPROVEMENTS.

A marked illustration of the revival of the iron trade is at hand. Mr. Charles C. Marsh, owner of the brick block on West Water street formerly occupied by Pierce & Whaling, and recently vacated by Jones & Laughlin, has engaged a large number of men to fit up the building at Bay View, near this city, to whom it was proposed to rent the store, to be fitted by them with a stock of merchant iron. They declined the enterprise, for the reason that they have a demand at the mills for all the iron they can produce; in fact, they cannot fill all their orders, and therefore will not be able to supply the market.

The management of the campaign for local offices has been left to the candidates.

John E. Eldredge and Prof. V. Van Vechten, who are the competing candidates for the Republican nomination for Sheriff, as Deuster, so far as he is concerned, is not a candidate.

He will be supported by his friends, and will be elected.

The management of the campaign for the State Legislature, which is to be conducted by the agents of the North Chicago Rollers, will be conducted by Mr. Edward Bartlett, who was introduced to the public by Prof. E. D. Hayes, and has been a member of the legislature for many years.

John Bentley, the attorney for the Democrats, is to be nominated for Sheriff.

The following is the list of candidates for the present Presidential visit: At a table where wine was used, the argument was addressed to me that the only way to content the use of light wine is to say "she" at the table when claret was drawn, thus giving an appealing claret a day or two.

$10 each, $400; 3 circuses, at $100 each, $300; 18 bowling alleys, at $5 each, $90; 22 cigar stores, 35 each, $85 each, $35; 18 hotel-runners, at $30 each, $60; Other amusement paying houses are second-hand dealers, auctioneers, peddlers, and bill-posters.

The applicants for the position of Court Commissioner, who by the death of Col. Hunter, resulted to the circuit, at least some of them did before the funeral. Judge Small justly rebuked this indecent haste, and will not make the appointment till the October term of court.

ART ITEMS.

Richard Shadé, the gifted student in crayon at Vianer's studio, whose work was mentioned in THE TRIBUNE's letter a few weeks ago, has gone to Germany to enter upon a regular course of art study, and promises splendidly for the future.

Young Mr. Marr, who is studying in Germany, is progressing finely, and bids fair to be capable of the best things as he arrives at maturity in art. His skill in portraits is especially remarkable.

S. M. Brooks, a pioneer portrait-painter in Milwaukee, who went to California fifteen years ago, has made fame and fortune on the Pacific coast. His works rank very high, and in particular are admitted to be unsurpassed among living artists.

Artini, the well-known fresco-painter of Chicago, has opened also an studio in Milwaukee, in some of the finest residences of the city. Among his works now on hand are a miniature in the Greek style, of ancient Corinth, and that it is a good-paying property.

The stock at least is not for sale, and has no quatable price.

The same statement, substantially, may be made to the Suring street, horse-cars, S. S. Merrill and the other parties in immediate interest control the stock, and are evidently satisfied with their business. None of the stock is on the market.

The East Side Street Railway, or Cream City, which is the name, was started by Mr. J. B. Turner, formerly of Tremont, and is now working out. When the line was opened from Mason street to Farwell street in 1875, and for a year afterwards, the road made, the cars, etc., were all built by hand, and the horses were intended to Division street, and down the South Side toward Bay View, which never paid. Other mismanagement ran the stock down, so that the stock is at least not for sale, and has no quatable price.
